

INTERNATIONAL HUMINT WEEK

UNIVERSITY OF APPLIED
SCIENCES BFI VIENNA

05 until 10 April 2020

Digitalization & inclusion @ the workplace

How can technological innovations support employees with special needs in selected Austrian organizations and companies

Learning outcomes

By the end of the International Week, the students are able to ...

- foster their verbal and non-verbal as well as written communication and collaboration skills.
- actively use English as a shared language to communicate in a culturally appropriate and linguistically adequate manner across cultures.
- act responsibly and enhance their problem- solving skills in an intercultural setting.
- further improve their presentation and free-speaking skills in their new, intercultural groups.
- encourage out-of-the box thinking and innovative brainstorming in intercultural groups.
- reflect on their own behavior and progress in intercultural teams by regularly participating in group discussions and writing entries in their reflection journals.
- manage complex projects and do research in intercultural teams and present their findings effectively.
- be a role model for others in terms of teamwork and support to reach a common goal.
- develop new approaches/ideas of how to use the latest technological innovations to support employees with special needs at the workplace.

Cooperation partner: ESSL FOUNDATION: Established in Austria in 2007, the Essl Foundation's mission has been to "support social innovation, social entrepreneurship and persons with disabilities". Currently, the foundation focuses on "social projects in Austria, with an emphasis on the inclusion of persons with disabilities in the open labor market, in accessibility and inclusive education".
